

GOVT. WILL NOT STOP AT COURT ORDER, REPORT

Will Take More Drastic Action if Necessary in Strike.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 2.—Under restrictions placed on them by the United States government by means of the most drastic and far reaching temporary injunction ever issued in an industrial crisis, the 300,000 railway shop men, who walked out July 1 in protest against wages and working conditions prescribed by the Railroad Labor Board, had entered a new era of the nation-wide rail strike today.

The restraining order, obtained from Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson by Attorney General Daugherty, prohibits interference in any manner with any and all phases of railroad operations. Printed and oral propaganda were placed under the ban, and the injunction is directed against all persons connected in an official capacity with the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor federated shop crafts and system federations.

The life of the temporary injunction extends to September 11, when Judge Wilkerson will hear a motion for a permanent order.

Talk General Strike.

Meanwhile the executive council of the American Federation of Labor prepared to meet on Sept. 9. Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, who condemned the injunction as "outrageous," said in Washington that communications from labor organizations requesting the federation to sponsor a general strike in sympathy with the shop men would be placed before the council at that time "purely as a matter of routine business."

Officials of the federation explained that it was not within the authority of the council to order or even authorize a general strike. Such action would require a "national convention."

Strike to Continue.
At the same time officials of the shop crafts asserted that the order would have no effect on continuance of the strike. In a statement issued by the executive council of the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor, strike leaders pledged to aid by their "every power" enforcement of the injunction against "lawlessness and violence" in connection with the strike.

From the White House came the declaration that the federal government will not stop with the restraining order if it finds "that other steps are necessary."

In their statement, the council assumed "that the right of railway employees is acknowledged to continue a lawful strike in a lawful manner until a satisfactory settlement is made." The statement declared that it would not be assumed that the Attorney General would have waited two months to proceed against the strikers, if a peaceful conduct of the strike was unlawful, or that President Harding would have held conferences with "lawbreakers," and "proposed that the law breakers whom they represented should return to work under terms which they afterward accepted and which the railway executives rejected."

Not Armed at Union Labor.
Attorney General Daugherty arrived in Chicago yesterday. In presenting his petition, he declared the injunction was not aimed at union labor and was necessary to the preservation of the unions themselves.

Meanwhile vandalism and violence continued to make their black marks on the current history of the walk out. The last twenty-four hours, however, developed fewer outrages than days immediately preceding.

High lights included the derailment of a Big Four passenger train at Brownsville, Ind., where a woman passenger was injured; bombing of the home of a railroad shop foreman at Little Rock, Ark.; a plot to dynamite property of the Louisiana & Arkansas Railway at Bentley, Louisiana; an attempt to derail a Big Four train at Marion, Ohio; derailment of the Palmetto Limited on the Atlantic Coast line near Tampa, Florida, and an attempt to blow up a bridge over the Cuyahoga river in Ohio.

Trestle Reported Unsafe.

The most disastrous occurrence was the wreck of a St. Louis-San Francisco passenger train at Cape Girardeau, Mo., with the loss of two lives and injuries to a number of passengers. The wreck occurred when the train crashed through a trestle. Investigation had established no act of vandalism as contributing to the cause of the collapse of the trestle. Although Prisco officials vigorously denied the trestle had been unsafe, prosecuting Attorney Funwick of Perry county began investigation of reports that section hands reported the structure to be unsafe several months ago.

The Baltimore & Ohio announced annulment of twenty-three passenger trains, Sept. 4.

Coal mines in the southern Illinois field were closed because of a car shortage. It was reported that half the mines in Williamson county were shut down.

C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central announced that conditions on that road had improved to such an extent that the Paducah, Ky., shops were employed more men than

DEMOCRATS SAY REPUBLICAN COAL BILL IS FAILURE

Say It Is Necessary to Get Coal Moving First of All.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Sept. 2.—The administration anti-profit coal bill was still before the senate today. Action on the measure went over when it was taken up yesterday and encountered the vigorous opposition of democratic leaders who declared it would not accomplish its purpose because the real crux of the coal supply problem, they said, was a lack of railroad motive power. They contended that the government should take immediate steps to relieve the condition growing out of the rail strike.

Chairman Cummins of the Interstate commerce committee, in charge of the bill and other republicans insisted that it would help to keep down coal prices, but Senator Underwood, of Alabama, the democratic leader, and Senator Reed, democrat of Missouri, argued that it would not prevent profiteering, and that it gave no authority to the Interstate Commerce Commission over the coal which it did not already possess. Only such a remedy of transportation conditions as will permit the free movement of coal, Senator contended, would control the price situation.

Senator Cummins admitted that the condition of some of the carriers was serious and expressed the opinion that the government control might yet prove the only remedy.

Burlington Pensions Fifty Workers Today

Married at 74, 94- Year Old Veteran is Father of Nine Kids

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Beauvoir, Miss., Sept. 2.—Married the first time when 74 years old, and the second time when 94, after which the stork brought nine babies to his home, is the record of James Henry Turner, confederate veteran, 94 years old, who is an inmate of the Jefferson Davis Soldiers Home here.

Mr. Turner's second wife died two years ago.

"I never went to school a day in my life, never went to parties nor dances, no picnics, where there were girls and grew up to be a typical bachelor," the veteran said today. "Girls somehow failed to attract me even after I was grown."

He pointed out that he joined the church fourteen years ago, or when he was 80, he was 25 years old when he rode on a railroad train for the first time.

No Let Up in Work to Rescue 47 Miners

Jackson, Cal., Sept. 2.—Another attempt to construct a platform at the 2500 foot level will take place today in an effort to establish an air relay from the Argonaut mine to air into lower levels of the Argonaut where forty-seven men have been entombed since Sunday midnight. While there was no let up in rescue efforts, the belief was growing that the imprisoned miners have perished.

Judd Decker of Sterling transacted business here this morning.

THE TRIUMPH OF LABOR

(Bronze-marble tablet presented to President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor at a post-war international labor conference in Europe, as an expression of appreciation of his work in behalf of the toilers of the world.)

Labor Day is Labor's own holiday, won by Labor, created in recognition of Labor's status in civilized society, and devoted each year to promulgation of Labor's principles for the betterment of all who toil.

Labor Day this year is signalized by a great unity and solidarity among America's toilers.

Their minds are upon the issues uppermost in our country.

They came back from a great victorious war against autocracy and Junkerism thrust upon them.

Splendidly Victorious.

In this they have been splendidly victorious thus far, and they are determined to be entirely victorious.

To permit deterioration or destruction of the best that America stands for.

It means taking the life out of Americans.

America must continue to be the land of justice for the toilers, the land of opportunity, the land of freedom and of democracy.

It must remain, above all others, the land where men and women may find realization of their hopes and their dreams.

—SAMUEL GOMPERS.

Labor's struggle today is to keep progress to the forefront. That should find the support and sympathy of every true American.

A better America, founded upon sound American traditions, making possible a better, nobler freer manhood and childhood—

That is what Labor wants.

That is worth the seeking, if life is worth the living.

Today's Market Report

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.)

Weekly Grain Review

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 2.—Fluctuations in wheat were rapid the past week, values falling to get far in either direction. Sept. wheat dropped sharply at one time on scattered liquidation and went to 2c under the Dec. Compared with a week ago, wheat was 1/2 to 1 1/2c lower; corn was a shade lower to 1/2c higher and oats a shade to 1/2c off. Lard showed a loss of 5 to 3 1/2c and ribs were unchanged to 1/2c up.

Local sentiment in wheat was bearish most of the week on account of the relatively slow foreign demand and the general depressing character of European news. Hedging sales against spring grain have been increasing rapidly with farmers selling freely. The movement of both sides of the line however, has been limited because of the transportation situation.

Corn showed considerable resistance to selling pressure and while declining sharply at one time rallied quickly. While the market averaged lower the first part of the week, reports of crop damage from hot and dry weather and private crop reports which showed a heavy reduction in the estimated yield as compared with the government's August figures tended to give the market an upward turn. Losses were said to be heavy in the west and southwest.

Cash demand was fairly good and exporters took liberal quantities of grain from the west. Old corn was sold by the country rather freely to arrive on the bulges but shot off in the breaks. Foreign demand was only fair.

Oats reflected the action of corn. Trade was mainly of a local character. Sept. showed relatively more strength than the Dec. and went under the deferred delivery.

Provisions averaged lower, liquidation of September and December lard being responsible for a sharp decline, with support more or less lacking.

GAZETTE TELLS HOW DIXON ELKS COPPED FINAL BALL MATCH

All Kinds of Baseball Featured Sterling-Dixon Battle.

Friday evening's Sterling Gazette contained the following account of Thursday's game between Dixon and Sterling Elks:

In a hectic battle, which ranks well in comparison with the 26-23 combat staged in Chicago last week by the Cubs and Phils of the National League, the Dixon Elks defeated the Sterling Elks in what purported to be a baseball game on Thursday afternoon at the Community Athletic park.

Twenty-three hits were made by the visiting club while the home boys garnered a total of 16 safeties. The Dixonites were chalked up with five errors while boots aggregating an even dozen were marked against the local Elks. After the scorekeeper had worn out a pencil in recording hits and errors, scarcely enough lead was left to figure up the total runs. It was finally figured out: Dixon 23, Sterling 18.

Manager Wilcox of the Sterling Elks seems to have used poor judgment in sending his pitching ace, Barney Wetzel, to the firing line on Thursday afternoon. Barney hurled a game on last Tuesday evening and to send him to the mound again on Thursday after only one day's rest seems to have been poor judgment on the part of the manager. Wetzel's effectiveness was as nil as "near death." He was pounded to all sides of the lot and those that did not go for clean hits, were fumbled or dropped by his mates. In fact, Barney's support was enough to take the heart out of a wooden Indian.

Sterling took an early lead by scoring one run in the third inning but did not hold it for long for in the fourth frame the Dixon Elks scampered around the bases almost at will, crossing the counting pan five times and just to prove that it was not an accident, they repeated the stunt in the fifth inning. And just to show that five tallies was not their limit in a single inning, the visiting Brothers pushed across seven markers in the eighth round.

Sterling's Big Rally.

With the score 21 to 6 against them in the last half of the eighth inning and after all the "dead and wounded" had been cared for and the debris carried from the field, a roll call showed that ten men had been sent home. Credit for putting the scoring machine into high gear is given Curley Briggs, the efficient secretary of the local Elks. Disgusted with the local anthered herd on account of their poor showing, Curley decided to take "the bull Elks by the horn" and perform a little bit himself. He went to the third base coaching line at the start of the eighth inning and by his splendid vocal efforts and frantic waving of the arms to direct the base runners, he succeeded in getting ten runs for his proteges. There is no telling what the score might have been if Curley had been on the coaching line all through the contest, but no doubt the local Elks might have run their total well up over a hundred.

BASE HITS

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Four twirlers in each of the two preceding games having failed to check Brooklyn's onslaught, McGraw rushed five to the firing line in an effort to check the Giants' slump, but the Dodgers, one run behind in the tenth, hammered across two runs off Scott and made it three in a row from the champs, 8-7.

The Giants had their lead over Chicago cut to five games as the Cubs took advantage of Cincinnati's errors and banged a 7-4 victory. The other national league contenders, St. Louis and Pittsburgh, divided a double header in which heavy hitting predominated. Reb Russell of the Pirates led the sluggers with seven hits, including three home runs, which brought his season's total to 12.

While the Yanks were idle, the St. Louis Browns gained a half game on the American League leaders and cut the margin separating them from the top to two games by defeating Ty Cobb's skidding Tigers 4-1.

The White Sox took fourth place from Cleveland by defeating the Indians 2-0, in a five inning affair, while Eddie Rommel, Mack's twirling ace, chalked up his twenty-first victory of the season by beating Boston, 4-3, in 11 innings.

The Boston Braves took their second straight double header from Philadelphia and climbed to within a game of seventh place.

Reb Russell, the former Minneapolis outfielder, now with the Pittsburgh Pirates, continues to be the talk of the league with his heavy hitting.

SCHOOL DAYS—
School days are here, the bells ring out
And over all the land;
The boys and girls troop off to school,
A merry little band.

For playtime now is over,
Vacation days are done;
Once more the bells are tolling
For school days have begun.

So bring the book and pencil, too,
The ruler and the slate;
Give heed to these autumn days,
Be careful you're not late.

For school days are the work days,
The training days of youth;
When girls and boys seek knowledge
And learn the rules of truth.

REAL SUNDAY—
The wedding of Miss Erma D. Real, says the Franklin Grove Reporter, to Richard Sunday was solemnized Friday in the city of Rockford, Rev. King of the Methodist church officiating.

The ceremony was performed in the church in the presence of the parents and a company of friends. The couple were attended by Miss Alma Sloggett, who resides near Ashton and Bert Thomas of Clinton, Iowa. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sloggett and is a most estimable young woman.

The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sunday, and is an industrious young man with many friends. He is employed as mechanic in Kelley's garage.

Immediately after the ceremony at 12:30, the wedding party enjoyed a bountiful dinner at the Illinois hotel in Rockford. Following the dinner, the couple motored to Chicago, where they enjoyed their honeymoon, returning to Franklin Grove, Sunday evening.

The bride was attired in white tulle, trimmed in blue. Her traveling suit was of coral tulle with hat in costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Sunday are receiving the heartiest of congratulations and best wishes from their many friends.

THIS IS NO TIME TO GIVE UP—

Right now is the time of year when folks say that the beauty time in the garden is almost gone and they leave the trees, shrubs and flowers to take care of themselves and ride around in their automobiles. This is a bad practice. The beauty of the garden has not gone. There are the September beauties in most all colors to be followed by the glowing flowers of October. These plants cannot develop beautiful flowers to make your garden glad, in September and October, unless they receive the best of care and attention at that time. The Golden Rod is now coming into bloom and in a few days the beautiful Fall Asters will be here in all their glory. Then too, here are the Chrysanthemums that bloom in later September and October, and there are many other hardy flowers that will give you the second and even the third crop of blooms, if you will but give them the care they require. We must not forget that the shrubs and the trees require attention and care. The ground should be kept loose so that the terminal buds on the shrubs and the trees will be fully developed, as this insures a better growth or these plants another year.

There is just as much fun in seeing it that the garden plants and orchards have proper care, as there is in riding around in an automobile. Folks, this is not the time of the year to quit making gardens—keep up the good work. It will pay big dividends in the happiness of yourself and your loved ones.

WERE VERY PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED WEDNESDAY—

Mrs. Tobias Switzer and Mrs. Emma Geisler entertained at the home of the former Wednesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Charles Fickinger and daughter, Grace, of Massillon, Ohio, and Miss Sarah Fickinger, of Conneaut, Ohio. Mrs. Charles Fickinger is the wife of a former pastor of the South Dixon charge.

There were twenty-five guests present Wednesday, and a very pleasant afternoon was spent renewing oldtime friendship. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Y. M. C. A. Building. Closed Two Weeks

Following the annual custom the Y. M. C. A. will be closed during the last two weeks in September (16th to 30th) for a general overhauling, painting and repairing. The whole building will be brightened up considerably and everything set for the opening of the fall season which is set for the 2nd of October.

Sept. Schedule in Physical Department

The Physical Department Schedule for the month of September will consist mainly of swimming and the hours that the boys have classes are as follows:

Juniors:
Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday at 4:15.
Intermediates:
Saturday at 9:30.
Same hours as were effective all summer, namely 7 and 8 every evening except Monday.

Boys Can Hardly Wait for Tuesday

But a few more days and the kids will all be joyously glad and exceedingly happy for school is about to start. For three long, lonesome, idle months they have been deprived of the privilege of attending school, heartlessly "gyped," forced to remain away from their beloved school. And now that their ambitions are to be realized Tuesday, their joy is unbounded and they can hardly wait till the first bell rings.

CLOSED MONDAY.
The Y will be closed all day Labor Day.

HARRY MORROW, EVANGELIST, TO COME TO DIXON

Grace Church Votes to Have Revivalist for Meetings.

Rev. C. G. Unangst of Grace church has received a letter from Evangelist Harry Morrow of Chicago saying that he was not engaged for meetings for the month of September and that he would be glad to come to Dixon for a short series of meetings in Grace church, if the congregation desired to have him come. He added that he would rather preach than have a vacation. Mr. Unangst read the letter to the people who were at the prayer meeting on Wednesday evening and they voted unanimously to have Mr. Morrow come. About fifty members of the congregation were present. A second letter was received on Friday morning stating that Mr. Morrow could be in Dixon next week, ready for a great campaign. He returned to his home in Oak Park on Monday from a camp meeting at Vandalia, Mich., which was declared to have been the best meeting ever held there. Mr. Morrow preached three times last Sunday and the altar was crowded with inquirers at each service. The great majority of them were young people. Their ringing testimonies for Christ were a great inspiration to the large congregation.

Prominent members of Grace church believe that this is a proposition that has come in answer to prayer and that while the time for further preparation for the proposed meeting is short, it will nevertheless be wise to have the evangelist come. The matter will be considered at the services Sunday and definite announcements will be made as soon as possible. Many people heard Mr. Morrow during the successful meeting held in Grace church two years ago and they will be glad to hear him again.

Oregon Newspaper Man Has Retired

Z. A. Landers, for many years editor and publisher of the Ogle County Republican, has leased his plant and has retired from the active management of the paper. His son, Ernest, and George Blake, the latter connected with the Reporter at Oregon for some time past, have taken over the publication.

Both Mr. Landers and Mr. Blake are young men who are hard workers and good newspaper men, and it is our opinion that they will carry on the Republican to the entire satisfaction of the elder editor, just retired. Mr. Blake conducts a column under the title of "Town Topics," which is a bright feature and a business builder for any county paper.—Rochelle Independent.

Our old friend Zibe Landers is one of the most able and fearless country newspaper men in Northern Illinois. The readers of the Republican will miss him. Here is to hoping he may live to enjoy the fruits of his labors.

LABOR'S REPRESENTATIVE IN THE CABINET

Labor has had its separate representation in the federal cabinet since 1913.

The portfolio of commerce and labor had existed previously, but in that year the work of the department was divided, the country's purely commercial interests were assigned to the commerce secretary's care and the post of secretary of labor was created to assume direction of those pertaining distinctly to the wage workers of the land.

It was a department established, as set forth by congressional enactment "to foster, promote and develop the welfare of the wage earners in the United States and to improve their working conditions for profitable employment."

The control of immigration and the enforcement of immigration laws, the naturalization of foreigners transplanted in the country, the compilation of labor statistics and direction bureau were among the administrative tasks placed within its jurisdiction.

Of course the extension of the department's "good offices," as adjudicator or mediator in labor controversies is an important detail among its duties, and one which has occupied much of the secretary's time in the recent somewhat troublesome industrial past.

James John Davis has directed the labor department's activities under the administration of President Harding.

A native of Tredgar, South Wales, Davis came to the United States with his parents in 1881, when only 8 years old.

Demands Webster's Dictionary Be Put Out of Libraries

Boston, Sept. 2.—Alleging that it contains matter "as British as London bridge" Councilman James A. (Jerry) Watson of Boston has called on the trustees of the public library to remove from its shelves the latest edition of Webster's dictionary.

The attack is based on its definition of the word "constitution" which is: "the principal or fundamental laws which govern a state or other organized bodies of men, and are embodied in written documents or are implied in the institutions and customs of the country or society."

In previous editions, specific reference had been made to the constitution of the United States.

The work, according to Councilman Watson, "is part and parcel of the Anglo-Saxon, monarchical propaganda which is insidiously undermining the sturdy Americanism of this country and is one more attempt to undermine the old ideals upon which this union was founded and to set up an Anglo-Saxon monarchy under the name of the United States of America."

OUR SHUFFLES IN OUR WORK

Most considerate persons hold two ideas as to the sudden ejection of Shuffling Phil Douglas from organized baseball. In judgment and fairness they are satisfied that the punishment, though severe, had to be administered, yet they entertained some kindly sympathy for an efficient player who was his own worst enemy and by a temperamental error reduced his destiny to a deplorable plight.

Certain principles must be upheld at any cost or sacrifice. They are fundamental to a business, a profession, a calling, a sport. In sport in general, and especially in the national pastime, these principles are enforced most rigorously, and they exist as unwritten laws which are so integral to sport that even boys are instinctively familiar with them. It is the code of ethics and honor which makes sport chivalrous.

Unchartered laws of strict fidelity are less observing in business than in sport. Everybody breaks them at times. The infractions are but slight in many instances, yet they are too often flagrant.

Is it infrequent for an employee to betray his chief to a rival official? Is it rare for an executive to dicker suspectiously for a position with a competing company? Is it unusual for a person who obtains new employment to disregard the secrets of the company whose service he left?
Is it uncommon for a company to engage an ambitious man from another concern for the purpose of using his knowledge against that concern?

Shuffling Phil evidently had a brain storm, as his offense was a bungle. His mistake was due largely, it seems obvious, to temperament.
But the law of sport is inexorable, and he had to suffer the penalty. His deficiency should not be taken into account. And the sentence imposed on him was banishment from the occupation on which his living depended.

Were all violators of ethics in business punished for similar offenses, there would be a higher standard of loyalty. But it happens that their breaches of honor are seldom discovered and they generally escape the slightest rebuke. In fact, it is not exceptional for wilful conspiracy in commerce to be rewarded.

We are not driven from our business or profession when we are unfaithful to our ideals or in our work.
We excuse ourselves by contending that self-preservation, as well as selfishness, is justifiable.

PASS THE BONUS BILL

Now that the senate has the tariff bill off its hands consideration and prompt action on the bonus, or "adjusted compensation" measure for former service men, is the next order on the program.

While President Harding and Secretary Mellon may be correct in their position that from an economic view point the country can not well afford at this moment to spare the billions that will be required to meet the payments under the bill, still as a matter of good faith the bill should be passed by congress without further delay.

The government has settled with about everybody else who contributed in any way toward the winning of the world war except those who shouldered a gun. The railroads have been taken care of on both completed and uncompleted contracts and, in fact, settlement day has long passed for all who were performing any work for your Uncle Sam — except the soldier.

When we bade the boys good bye at the railroad stations before they departed for overseas they were assured that nothing would be too good for them when they came back. Political parties, in their platforms, made all sorts of promises. Delivery day, which always comes, has now arrived.

The bonus bill is certain to pass both senate and house. The president has indicated, in some of his messages, that he may veto the measure. If he does the house will unquestionably pass it over the veto.
The senate will probably do likewise,
by a narrow margin.

The great trouble is that a majority of the ex-service men feel that they have been cheated — have not had just exactly a square deal from their government — and the country can not afford to have the existence of this feeling continue.

The money to pay the bonus bill will come from somewhere or other, just as has the money with which our other world war bills have been met. This is a rich and grateful nation and it can not afford to shirk any just obligations.

LEADERS ARE ONLY FOLLOWERS

Every occasion, it is said generally as a conclusive belief, draws forth leaders competent to master it. Yet there is no fact of history which is clearer than the opposite. Seldom does it happen that any great men rise up in crises and dominate national or world affairs, and most of those who are called great and who are honored for beneficent achievement were simply opportunists who compromised momentous causes for particular ends.

The well known New York financier, Paul M. Warburg, made this burning assertion at a recent meeting of the Institute of Politics:
"There never was a time when public men were offered a greater opportunity to serve their country by speaking the truth, or when more brazenly and more cowardly they whispered the truth in private, while, from the households and soapboxes, they told the stories that would get them votes and keep them in their political jobs."

In the United States and most of the countries of Europe, if not all, men who should be leaders, and on whom the people rely for direction, have their ears to the ground, sounding out public opinion. Instead of attempting to lead, they are willing to be led. As a consequence they are guided not by what the people conscientiously think, but by the fear which the people feel and by the trickery of influential economic and social groups.

The masses always prefer to be led. They have a lurking idea as to what their opinions should be, an instinct as to what is right, but without leadership they do not trust themselves to reach a decision or to manifest their inclination of thought.
Nevertheless, those who should be leaders wait for the expression of public opinion.

When the masses see the right they recognize it. It appears to them as the realization of mental impressions which they have had indistinctly. When they see leaders espousing the right, in loyal patriotic and sincere fairness, they halt those leaders.

Those who should be leaders are making the mistake of being followers. Their error lies in lack of courage. The people will find out that they have been impostors. The situation calls for men of fearlessness who are qualified to be leaders by dealing frankly and honestly with principles.

A FEDERALIZED EUROPE

Herbert Sidebotham, English newspaper man, student of politics and military expert, has an article in the current Atlantic Monthly in which he alludes to some of his own experiences as a journalist at the Genoa conference. One point brought out by him is particularly interesting. He tells how he was frequently mistaken for an Italian, a French or a Polish gentleman, and was given documents in those languages — never in English. His daughter was mistaken by Poles for the wife of a Spanish ambassador, by Spaniards for a Pole, by Hungarians for a Swede, and by Russians for a French woman. From these facts he drew the following conclusion:

"These are trivialities, but beneath them is a profound truth — namely, that the racial distinctions in Europe are artificial and unreal. There is, in fact, a European type as distinct as the American; and if that be so may we not look forward some day to a European equivalent of a United States of America? Get rid of competitive armaments, suspend for a few years the miserable games of the old diplomacy, and I can not see that the formation of a Europe federalized for the important purpose of international life is materially a more

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

(No. 42)

BY ELTON

THE APPROACH OF STRANGE HORSEMEN SET THE WHOLE CRAP IN AN UPROAR. SEVERAL MEN RUSHED TO THE LOOKOUT POST TO SPY ON THEM. THE CHIEF GAZED THROUGH HIS MONSTER TELESCOPE.

SURE ENOUGH SHOUTED THE CHIEF, "THEY ARE HERDED THIS WAY. EVERY MAN MAKE FOR THE MOUNTAIN OUTCROFT SO THEY CAN'T FIND US." AND THEN CAME A MURMURED DEPARTURE.

THE RACE DOWN THE MOUNTAIN SIDE WAS THRILLING TO JACK. HE HAD NEVER TRAVELED SO FAST. FLIP SEEMED STARTLED TOO, AS HE RACED ALONG BEHIND THE FAST RUNNING HORSES.

ARRIVING AT THE DUGOUT THE MEN ALL DISMOUNTED AND HID THEIR HORSES BEHIND THE TREES. THEN THEY ALL HURRIED OUT OF SIGHT. THEMSELVES JACK SEES THE STRANGE HORSEMEN IN THE NEXT CHAPTER.

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well.

GOITER

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP

The very fear of goiter may be the direct cause of one.

This is because the thyroid gland is affected easily by fear, worry and other strong emotions. A goiter is an enlargement of the thyroid gland, or a condition of undue activity on its part.

The thyroid gland is located in the lower part of the neck and a certain amount of secretion is necessary to promote good health, while an excessive supply causes many bad symptoms.

The best preventive of goiter in those inclined to be afflicted thus is rest under medical supervision, and the banishment of all worry.

In the first stages of goiter, iodine should be given. It has been found that people living at sea level are free from goiter symptoms, there being sufficient iodine in the food to permit the proper functions of the gland.

If the goiter has progressed to a more serious stage the whole system is poisoned—the heart usually first, then the liver, kidneys, and so on. Some rules for goiter patients are: Avoid all excitement or irritation. Get an abundance of rest. Go to bed early, sleeping long hours and taking a midday nap. Sleep in a thoroughly ventilated room. Eat and drink nothing that irritates the nervous system. Eat slowly and chew thoroughly. Avoid foods that are difficult or digestion. Eat but little meat. Do not eat it oftener than three times a week and then only a small portion of beef, mutton, chicken or fish. Drink plenty of milk, also great quantities of water, making sure that it is absolutely pure.

difficult problem than that with which American statesmen deal every day. Perhaps, on a broad view, the real business of the conference is to prepare the way for that ideal.

OUTLOOK

Information that will soon affect your pocketbook: In the week ending August 5, the railroads loaded 851,351 cars of freight. That's only 20,722 cars less than in the corresponding week of 1919, when business was going so fast it threatened to burst a blood vessel. (It did, later.)

This big recent showing was made in the face of abnormally small coal shipments from mines. The outlook is good. Steel mills have slowed down of 55 per cent of capacity, but that's due mostly to fuel situation, hence probably only temporary.

MONEY

Easy money coming for somebody. Industrial corporations in September will distribute over $37,000,000 in dividends, against $42,000,000 in July 1919, when money grew on trees.

After all, is it easy money? At the source, dividends originate in savings. People who get the dividends are enjoying those savings in installments. Instead of having the thrill of blowing the principal all in at one time.

The dividend system does not please all Americans, but at least the picking is open to anyone willing to scrimp and save.

IT'S MUTUAL

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is—FLUX.
It's pronounced—flux, as spelled. As ordinarily used at the present day, it means—flowing, unstable, inconstant; undergoing change; in process of fusion; in a liquid state, usually through heat.

It comes from—Latin "fluxum," to flow.

It's used like this—"Largely due to the effects of the war, economic and many other conditions are in a state of flux, practically throughout the world."

LABOR DAY

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Edwards Borton

TRAP SET FOR FLAP-DOODLE.

Nancy and Nick rented a house on the Milky Way and set about furnishing it.

As they had been changed into Chinese children they decided to have furniture.

So they went to China, and by waving the splinter off the Fairy Queen's wand and saying some magic they got all the furniture they wanted—Chinese lanterns, and Chinese cushions to sit on, and funny Chinese stools, and matting, and rice-bowls and chopsticks, and everything.

"Now," said Nancy, "when Flap-Doodle comes along we'll invite him in. He'll never know us in the world and we can get back the Fairy Queen's wand he stole."

Everything went well. The Twins hustled as fast as they could, and in a jiffy their little pagoda house looked as if they'd lived in it for years and years.

Just as they expected, after awhile Flap-Doodle, the purple fairy who flew with his ears, got tired of monkeying around the Moon and left.

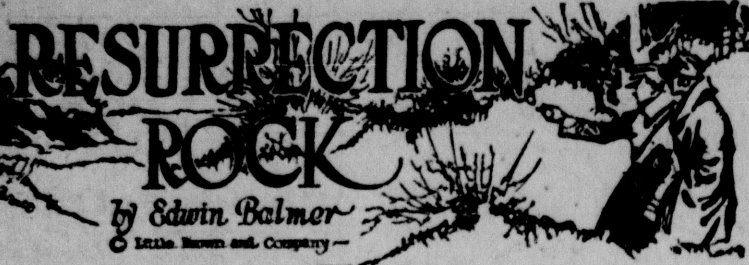

"I'll just travel along the Milky Way," said he to himself. He flapped his big ears, which stuck out like sails, and away he flew lazily, singing his favorite song, "tra diddy up dum, doodle um day, a she went."

He laughed and chuckled every little while when he thought of all the mischief he had done.

"I fixed those nebbly Twins all right!" he giggled. "Turned one into a baby-doll and the other into a wooden soldier! Wonder where they are now! Oh, look at the little house over there! Maybe I can rent it."

RESURRECTION ROCK

By Edwin Palmer
Little, Brown and Company

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Horror stricken by her fear that BARNES LOUETRELL, the young lieutenant, had been murdered, ETHEL CAREW, goes to the unoccupied house on mysterious and ghostly Resurrection Rock and finds there evidence of crime and proof that a body has been hidden under the lee of Lake Huron.

At once she suspects that her grim and relentless grandfather, LUCAS CULLEN, SENIOR, has had the murder committed in early days and fear when he learned that Louetrell had entered these northern Michigan woods to go to the Rock. Ethel and Louetrell were drawn together by close mutual interest in France. These messages instructed him to proceed to Resurrection Rock—a trip which he hoped would clear up his obscure past.

Lucas Cullen had been guilty of violent crimes in early days and fear was driving him to violence. Ethel furiously accused her grandfather of instructing her to shoot Louetrell.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Oh, I had Kincheol do something out there, did I?" Lucas demanded. Ethel could not answer him for the suffocation in her breast; muscles seemed to be tugging tight all through her.

"Barney Louetrell's been made away with," she cried.

"Hey? You saw him dead?"

"No, but—"

"Have you enough shame left to realize what you have just been saying to me?" he assailed her, raising his hand clenched but for his huge forefinger with which he threatened her. "Kincheol has killed your fine friend of the train, Barney Louetrell."

"You said, I had him do it? Eh? Eh? Say to me, do you mean that?"

"Yes!"

"Eh? So Kincheol—and I had him do it—killed your Barney Louetrell, you believe?"

"Yes!"

He jerked his wrist out of her grasp and stepped back, looking down at her and laughing.

"I must have Miss Platt hear you," he said, when he was through laughing. "And your grandmother."

He stepped to the door, and opening it, called first for Miss Platt and then for his wife.

"Now we will all hear your opinions," her grandfather said, and before the others he made her accuse Kincheol and himself again.

Then he went once more to the door. "Leutenant Louetrell," he called. "Mr. Barney Louetrell, will you step in here?"

He was not dead! She opened her eyes to see him in the doorway; he entered and came toward her, speaking to her. Everything wavered about him; but he did not waver in her sight. She cried out—or whispered—something in reply to the words he was saying. She knew neither what she said nor how she said it.

Her grandfather was grabbing at her, saying something; and Miss Platt was addressing her; but Ethel heeded neither of them.

"I thought you were dead!" she was explaining to him. "You see, I thought they had killed you."

"I came to find you as early as I dared," he told her. "I came here just to see you. They told me you would be down soon. I had no idea you had gone out."

"I went to the Rock for you. You see, I thought they had hurt you and—"

Her grandfather interrupted them loudly; he ordered her to go at once to her room; but she disregarded him.

"Leave her alone!" Barney Louetrell broke in. "Leave her alone!" he repeated, putting himself between her and her grandfather. "She has something to say to me; and I have much to tell her. I came to see her. You can give us this room, or we will go out; won't we, Miss Carew?" he asked her.

"Yes," she said. "Yes."

his house with his rifle loaded. He wasn't sure whether Kincheol, or the other man, was coming back from the Rock to his house.

"What are we in, you and I?" she asked, suddenly shivering.

He put his hands steadily upon her arm, and got her into it. "You accused yourself. You know I'd no idea what it would do to you, or I'd turned back yesterday."

"I think there's surely something to be found out in Chicago," Barney said when Ethel stated her determination to go there at once. "Bagley's back there; and Marcellus Clarke has his office there."

"And my uncle Lucas is there—or he was when he sent that telegram last night warning grandfather. But of course, he'll be with grandfather; I'll learn nothing from him, if he can help it."

She gave him her hand in good-by.

CHAPTER IX

AS the train bore Ethel away from Resurrection Rock and from Barney Louetrell, the girl bated in her mind the task which confronted her on her arrival and vaguely wished that cousin Agnes, Mrs. Oliver Cullen as she had been known in Chicago society before her tragic disappearance from the tormented Gallant, were alive to aid her.

About Agnes there had been something of a mystery as well as an attraction to Ethel. Cousin Agnes first came to Chicago as a girl, she told those who asked her. Previously she had lived in a small town and no one—not even the many newspaper interviewers—got farther than that.

It was plain that, not long before her employment in the Cullen office, she had passed through some extraordinary experience which had tremendously sapped her vitality. She had endured some frightful ordeal which temporarily had downed her but had not beaten her.

Many men offered themselves to take up her battle for her. But only Oliver Cullen, after his fifth or sixth attempt, succeeded in offering himself.

John died and Oliver "the damned weakling" and his upstairs wife, who had been a stenographer, claimed from Lucas and his stronger, far more able sons, the control of the Cullen corporations which ownership old John's stock implied.

Lucas fought and blustered; but Oliver asserted the control; or, rather, Agnes did. For Lucas and his sons did not remain long in doubt regarding the force with which they had to deal; nor did outsiders remain ignorant.

So they grinned and bore it while they watched Oliver gradually sink into invalidism and year follow year with Agnes childless.

There was an old contract, which Lucas, Senior, had safely locked away, by which he and his brother had bound themselves that in the event of either of them or their sons dying without issue, the holdings of the deceased would pass to the survivor.

In September, 1918, those conditions seemed completely fulfilled; for Agnes, who had gone heart and soul into war work, sailed aboard a ship which was torpedoed; and she was lost.

The news reached Oliver on the twentieth; and on the twenty-second, he died.

But Agnes, as though to torment Lucas even after her death, had passed on in the most annoying way possible. Though it was obvious that she had drowned, yet no one actually had seen her drown.

Since she was not legally dead, her home remained open. Mrs. Wain, her housekeeper, and her servants were at the house, which they were keeping in order as though Mrs. Oliver Cullen were away merely on a visit.

It was to cousin Agnes' home that Ethel went after an unsuccessful attempt to discover any knowledge of Bagley.

Marcellus Clark, she learned, was in Europe and no one at his office could disclose information of Bagley or the reasons why the frightened steward had been sent to the lone house on Resurrection Rock.

But a shock awaited her when she entered her cousin's home and was greeted by the housekeeper.

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lake, Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."

Mrs. M. SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing its merit.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound?

Illinois Central System Values the Good Will of Its Patrons

In the commercial world good will is regarded as one of the most valuable assets a business can have. In the valuation of industrial companies it is frequently rated at many millions of dollars. We believe that good will is also of great value to a railway system—in fact, we believe it is one of the most valuable assets a railway system can have.

We are constantly seeking to promote good will among our patrons for the Illinois Central System. We are doing it by attempting to render a dependable, efficient transportation service; by having officers and employees who are at all times courteous and obliging to our patrons; by giving our patrons accurate information in regard to the Illinois Central System; by co-operating with our patrons and seeking their co-operation with us through their constructive criticism and suggestions.

We have sought to create for this railway system, in the consciousness of our patrons, a personality embodying the highest ideals of public service. It is toward such ideals that we are constantly striving. It is our endeavor to be of constructive service to every community, every farmer, every business man, every industrial and commercial enterprise in the territory which we serve with transportation.

We have repeatedly appealed to our patrons to work closely with us, to support us, not only with their business, but with their friendships, to fortify us with their constructive criticism and suggestions.

The Illinois Central System and its patrons are sharers of common problems. It is to our best interests to be ever mindful of the best interests of the territory we serve, and, on the other hand, we believe our patrons can best serve their own interests by doing that which will strengthen us. Representatives of all departments of the Illinois Central System are filled with a pride in their work and a desire to be of helpful service to our patrons. They are striving to make every patron of this railroad feel a friendship for and a personal interest in the Illinois Central System.

It is our hope that the Illinois Central System will always stand in the front rank of the railroads of this country in having the good will of its patrons. We feel grateful to those we strive to serve for the full measure of support and confidence which they have accorded us in the past, and we shall leave nothing undone in endeavoring to merit their continued support and confidence in the future. We feel that having the good will of our patrons places an added responsibility upon us to do our utmost to serve them well, and we accept that responsibility, pleased that we have the opportunity to contribute to the upbuilding of a great and fruitful territory, the incomparable Mississippi Valley.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

Illini Hall Closes After Fine Season

Thinking of Tomorrow

If by some magic the curtain of the future might be drawn back and you could see life as it will be ten or twenty years from today—where would you be?

You know the answer. The men and women who will then have the most independence and influence in our community will be the ones who today think and plan most wisely for the tomorrows—and hold themselves ready to take advantage of every opportunity that comes.

Nothing will help you more, five or ten years from now, than the dollars you can save by starting today—and you can save best by getting some bank to co-operate with you. As members of the Federal Reserve Banking System we are prepared to co-operate with you in every way. Let us show you how to save and to make your money work for you
